

Tesla Becomes First Brand Showcased in Soligent's New Featured Manufacturer Microsite Series

Soligent's new Featured Manufacturer Microsite Series kicks off with Tesla, giving installers a one-stop destination for everything they need to succeed with the brand. The Tesla hub — soligent.net/tesla — puts product specs, training resources, certification info, and promotional offers all in one place. Instead of hunting across multiple sites, installers can quickly access accurate, updated information that helps them quote faster, close deals with confidence, and keep projects on track. The hub also includes direct access to Tesla's full product lineup in Soligent Connect, so installers can move seamlessly from research to ordering in just a few clicks.

For installers, this dedicated microsite is more than just a resource library — it's a growth tool. With streamlined access to Tesla's most in-demand products, exclusive promotions, and Soligent's nationwide inventory, installers can speed up their sales cycle and deliver greater value to homeowners. And because it's integrated with Soligent Connect, every installer gains a faster path from product discovery to purchase, ensuring they stay competitive and ready to win in a fast-changing solar market.

Soligent Launches Dedicated Financing Hub to Power Your Solar Projects

Soligent has launched a dedicated Financing Center on Soligent.net, giving installers a one-stop hub to access the tools they need to close more projects and grow their business. The page makes it easier than ever to navigate financing options, compare solutions, and get quick access to applications—helping installers save time while providing homeowners with flexible pathways to go solar. By centralizing financing resources, Soligent is making the sales process smoother, faster, and more customer-friendly.

Inside the Financing Center, installers will find direct application links to leading financing partners, including Sunlight Financial, Sungage Financial, GoodLeap, Skylight Lending, and now Billd for commercial financing. Whether a project calls for residential loans or commercial solutions, these trusted providers give you a range of competitive options to fit your customer's needs. With everything in one place, the Financing Center simplifies your workflow so you can focus on delivering solar projects with confidence and efficiency.
